Letter From the Historian

Hello TBPeople! This week, I'm trying something a little new. Since this week didn't have any large meetings or big events, I wanted to delay the Cornerstone until the electee interviews were completed and just provide a little update on what events are coming up this week.

With all of that in mind, I want to issue a special congratulations to our new electees, who have just completed their first step towards joining TBP: the electee interviews. I sincerely hope that they went well and that you electees weren't too stressed out about them, either before or after. Remember that, along with trying to get a grasp of your character, we also want to make you feel welcome.

I also want to encourage all of y'all, both electees and actives, to get involved with the chapter, both in social events and professional development events. Not only do these contribute to DA, PA, or active status (for our electees, especially), but they are a great way to get everything you can out of TBP, including life-long friendships. Even if you don't end up winning the games, every event is an opportunity to have some fun in a time where it's hard to get those connections.

On another note, if you're anything like me, the first round of midterms are coming up, and stress can begin to settle in. I want to take a moment to remind you that TBP is filled with people from all different areas within engineering, and almost all of them are willing to help others. We're all going to have to struggle through the upcoming exams, but I've realized that it's all made much easier if you're willing and able to look for help wherever possible.

Good luck to everyone in the upcoming weeks, whether it's with the electing process, exams, or anything else!

Go Blue!
Matt
