Letter From the Historian

Hello everyone!

Welcome to the final general meeting and your last Cornerstone before your initiation into Tau Beta Pi! Congratulations on making it this far! Before you continue, please take a moment to pat yourself on the back for the hard work you put into this great achievement. Me and the officers truly appreciate your dedication, and we are excited to welcome you all as new active members.

In addition, congratulations to all of the newly elected officers for the winter semester, and thank you to everyone who participated in elections. It has been an honor being your historian this semester and I am very grateful for the opportunity to work alongside our amazing officer corps. If you still have any feedback about the Cornerstones for future volumes, please fill out this form: tbpmig.org/cornerstonecontribution.

Today your electee teams will be performing as we test your culinary and musical abilities in our Bake n' Yell. Good luck in today's meeting, and I look forward to seeing you all as actives in the future! Make sure to save me a brownie. :)

One Minute Reads

The Michigan Wolverines went to Columbus and stunned the second-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes in arguably the biggest upset in rivalry history, winning The Game for a fourth-straight season. There are always a lot of strong emotions and reactions to what happens in this rivalry, but this one generated about as much as any of them.

“They’ve heard how big of an underdog they were,” Van Bergen said. “They’ve heard the buzzsaw that is Ohio state. They’ve heard Gus Johnson repeatedly say ‘the world famous Ohio State Buckeyes’ and there’s got to be a little chip, and I think you saw it come out today on the field.
