Letter From the Editor

Hello TBPeople!

If you somehow aren't already aware, tonight is officer elections. Before you get bored of reading this letter, I want to remind you that you are able and encouraged to nominate yourself during this meeting. So even if you have not been nominated online, or even if you just decided you want to run for a position a few minutes ago, go for it!

The next point I would like to bring up is the election process. TBP has a specific process we follow for elections. On page 4, flowcharts of the process are listed to help you keep track of how it all works. Please pay attention as all of the rules are explained during the meeting. Two of the most important rules are (1) everything said about candidates is confidential and (2) you must be signed in when you enter the meeting and signed out when you leave.

This meeting is a long one. Luckily, there will be food throughout, and in this edition of the Cornerstone are a few fun puzzles (please see the dinosaur mazes). On behalf of all the officers, we greatly appreciate your participation, and we wish good luck to those running for officer positions!

Sincerely,
Patrick McCauley
